

BeansTalk Biz Newsletter

BeansTalk News: Daily news on fashion, beauty, film, television, books -- all media -- and anything else of relevant interest. (View the current month in its news entirety by clicking the date under Archives.)

Monday, January 08, 2007

The Kind of Brush Off You Want

We were recently introduced to Vox Cosmetics, which offers up essential makeup tools, specifically, they have two signature sets of brushes. The first is a 16-piece professional set, which retails for $305.50.

Not being professionals, we were thrilled with the nine-piece Brush Set, which includes everything the average woman needs. Brush Set includes: Powder Brush 1, Blush Brush 2, Foundation Brush 4, Blending Crease Brush 6, Eye Contour Brush 8, Shader Brush 9, MD Shader Brush 12, Brow Brush 14, Lip Brush 16, & Standard 9 Piece Brush Case. Priced at about $200.

The Standard 9 Piece Brush Set includes the essential brushes required to create great makeup results. The set was designed for convenience & accessibility in a smaller case. Perfect for the woman on the go.

We've recently had to have our makeup done professionally, and the brushes in the Vox set are exactly what the pros have used on us. The quality is evident, too. Makeup artists for Tori Spelling and SAG nominee Jaime Pressley used them on their clients and now Spelling and Pressley use them, too. Spelling apparently picked up several sets to give as gifts for the recent holidays.

Vox Cosmetics closes the gap between makeup artist and consumer by providing the essential tools and education. Vox is dedicated to helping consumers make the most of their own potential to achieve professional makeup results. www.voxcosmetics.com

posted by News 24/5 @ 5:19 AM

<http://beanstalkbiz.blogspot.com/>