

Daily Dose

Brusha, Brusha, Brusha

There was a time in the early nineties when you believed that matte brown MAC li...

Feb. 5

February 5, 2007

Brusha, Brusha, Brusha

There was a time in the early nineties when you believed that matte brown MAC lipstick, liquid black eyeliner and concealer were all any girl needed to look beautiful. Since then hopefully you've realized that true makeup pros shade like they're creating still life masterpieces. Great makeup goes a long way, but according to veteran artist Vanessa Gulino, professional quality brushes make all the difference. That's why she created Vox Cosmetics' new high-end squirrel, goat sable and synthetic brushes in nine or sixteen-piece sets, used on beauties like Faith Hill, Rebecca Romijn and Molly Sims. So you can look great and have a brush with celebrity. $100-$305, vox cosmetics.com

<http://www.thestylephile.com/blog/330000033/post/1830006783.html>